THE CHOIR The administration of the choir and its music is conceded to be in most of our American churches a difficult problem. The mere discussion of phases of this problem has often proved distressingly provocative of serious differences of opinion, of many bitter feelings, and of some out-and-out quarrels. Hence the fugitive anecdotes and squibs in the public press relating to church music usually turn on some aspect of the assumed incompatibility of choirs with that for which churches exist, or of churches with that for which choirs think themselves to exist. Hence ministers of wide experience often advise special caution in dealing with this subject, and their younger brethren are either hopelessly timid about it or are bold only with the proud recklessness of youth. Hence in certain parishes there appears a peculiar sensitiveness concerning all choir matters, traceable to the...
