Running Press Kids. Paperback. Condition: New. 304 pages. The Ruling Lord of the House of Galton is dead, and the nation is in shock or celebrating, depending on the district. Kit Franks would be more than happy to join him. Kit's mother bombed the digital core of the House, killing several and upending the nation's information structure. No one wants the daughter of a terrorist. Kit lost her job, her aunt wants her evicted, her father is using her as a shield against a drug lord, a group of political rebels need Kit to ignite an interplanetary war, and the boy two floors down keeps jacking up her suicide attempts as if she has a life worth saving. When Mom-the-terrorist starts showing up on feeds and causing planet-wide blackouts, everyone looks to Kit for an answer. The rebels want Mom on their side. The government needs to stop Mom's digital virus from spreading before there's no record of government left. Both sides will do anything, destroy anyone, to make Kit crack. They believe she's the key to Mom's agenda and the House's future. Worst of all, they may be right. Kit's having dreams she can't explain, remembering conversations that no longer seem innocent, understanding too much coded subtext in Mom's universal feed messages. Everyone, from Mom to the rebels, has a vision of Kit's fate locked, sealed, and ready to roll. The question is, does Kit have a vision for herself? Tessa Elwoods final book in the Inherit the Stars series introduces readers to a strong, unique heroine who must chart her own destiny against a minefield of family ambitions and political agendas. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg, OR, La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
