Geo. W. McBride, Secretary of State, I have prepared this edition of the school laws with special reference to the growing wants of our school system, and for the information and convenience of school officers. Chapter I of this edition contains the school laws, amendments thereto, and abstracts of decisions in the supreme court of Oregon touching school questions, and special school acts. Chapter II contains the revised rules and regulations of the State board of education for the government of public schools and school officers. Chapter III contains blank forms for the use of school officers. Chapter IV contains the constitution of the State of Oregon, with annotations, notes, references, etc. Chapter V contains miscellaneous suggestions and information for the use of superintendents, district school officers, teachers, etc. The official duties of school officers set forth in the school law, although apparently clear and simple, yet became complicated in many ways concerning the duties and responsibilities of school officers in the matter of school meetings, election of school directors and clerks, care of school property, resignations and vacancies in office, change of district boundaries, qualifications, salaries and employment of teachers, appeals to county or State superintendent, care of school property, use of school property, school sites, school taxes, district records, purchase or sale of school property, duties of directors, etc. During the present administration, many appeals and...
